The screenshot displays the McDonald's website's 'OUR FOOD. YOUR QUESTIONS.' section. At the top, the McDonald's logo is on the left, and the title 'OUR FOOD. YOUR QUESTIONS.' is in large, bold letters. Below the title, a sub-header reads: 'Canada asked. We've answered - thousands of questions about our food. Search them all. And if you don't find what you're looking for, ask yours.' A navigation bar contains several categories: Beef, Chicken, Egg&Dairy, Potato, Ingredients, Nutrition, and Produce (which is selected and highlighted). A search bar is located to the right of the categories. The main content area features a grid of question cards. Each card has a question in a blue box, an answer in a dark grey box, and the user's name and location in a dark grey box. The questions are: 'What exactly is the difference between a Double Cheeseburger and a McDouble for its 40 cent difference?', 'What is McDonald's official response to the documentary film Super Size Me?', 'Is your sausage real?', and 'What exactly is the difference between a Double Cheeseburger and a McDouble for its 40 cent difference?'. The answers are: 'Our burgers are never reheated, Rich. To ensure the highest standards of quality and safety, the cuts of beef we purchase are ground and our burger patties are flash frozen and then shipped to our restaurants. They are cooked on our grill, seasoned with a pinch of salt and pepper, and assembled to order. That's the raw truth!', '...see answer', '...see answer', and '...see answer'. "What exactly is the difference between a Double Cheeseburger and a McDouble for its 40 cent difference?"

OUR ANSWER:

Our burgers are never reheated, Rich. To ensure the highest standards of quality and safety, the cuts of beef we purchase are ground and our burger patties are flash frozen and then shipped to our restaurants. They are cooked on our grill, seasoned with a pinch of salt and pepper, and assembled to order. That's the raw truth!
